

Eric North is an attorney who has represented the interests of consumer lending institutions for more than twenty-five years. Practicing with the law firm of Moore Brewer Wolfe Jones Tyler & North, with offices in Northern and Southern California, Eric has argued cases before California state courts, federal district courts, and the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal. Prior to becoming an attorney, Eric worked within the consumer finance industry in management, and in lending, collections, and operations departments.

In addition to practicing law, much of Eric's time is dedicated to training consumer lending professionals regarding the laws that govern them. Through his separate business NorthLegal Training and Publications, and working in cooperation with state and national trade associations, Eric presents monthly webinars, periodic seminars and the annual NorthLegal Bankruptcy Conference.

Eric is the author of the California Repossession Law and Procedures Guide which, along with its included forms, is used by credit unions, banks and other consumer financial institutions doing business in California.
